

BENCHMARKING SURVEYS

Abstract: Methods and machines that provide for creation of surveys with a variety of questions.

Each survey is assigned goals. Each question is weighted toward the goals. The results of each response to a survey can be tallied to determine an index. The index can be correlated with the indices of other related surveys to produce a graph of the trends of the success toward the goals.

09851624 050804